from New York to Florida, and is sometimes seen in the upper part of this harbor. Old fishermen have a semi-comic attitude toward the porpoise and have curious superstitions touching its appearance on the coast. Small schools of porpoises are seen from the coast below New York Bay moving north or south, a few miles at sea, and leaping one afterancher into the air. The fishermen who catch them follow up schools of small fish upon which the porpoises feed.

A full-grown porpoise yields a skin from 5 to 6k fest long, and from 2 feet to 30 inclus wide. The process of curing and tanning has been expedited within a few years so that the skins are much more promptly brought to market than they once were. Wholesalers sell the skins either in gides, two to a hide, or cut into vamps for shoes. All old fishermen believe that the porpoise skin is waterproof, and the belief has gradually crept into the popular mind, though it is a matter of doubt whether the skin will long resist water. It does, however, make the best possible hunting boots, since it is very pliant, is perhaps the strongest leather made, and is not easily penetrated by moisture under ordinary conditions. Thus far the demand for porpoise leather has come from the custom shoemakers. It has pever made its way to the shoe factories as kangaroo leather has, and people down in the swamp say that porpoise leather can never be in great demand until it shall have reached the factories. On the other hand, the fact that the skins are small and the cost of catching the porpoises is considerable makes it difficult for the manufacturer of shoes to introduce it. Many custom shoemakers use it for expensive shoes, and it is to some extent in use for machinery belting when the belts are not very large. It is used also in some parts of the phonograph. The porpoise shoe laces are made from the scraps of the loather, and it is extreme toughness and elasticity.

A RECEIVER FOR ELDORADO. The Stockholders Refused to Make Up a 881,000 Deficit.

Eldorado, the beautiful and gorgeously appointed amusement resort on Weshawken Heights, is in the hands of a receiver. The fact has been kept a secret, but it leaked out last night and created considerable surprise. The attendance at Eldorado during the season ust closed has been so large as to create the impression that the stockholders of the com-pany were realizing handsome dividends. It pany were realizing handsome dividends. It seems now that the profits of this season were not sufficient to make good the losses of last season, and the company is virtually bankrupt. The directors held a meeting last Tuesday and decided to ask the stockholders to subscribe $31,000 to meet expenses which had been incurred. The stockholders objected. They had been is to believe that the enterprise was very prosperous, and they expected that a dividend would be declared at the close of the season. When the directors made a demand for $31,000, Lawyer John Ol Besson of Hoboken was employed to make application for the appointment of a receiver. Mr. Besson went to Trenton and made the application to Chancellor McGill. The Chancellor appointed Theophilus Butts of Hoboken.

No information could be obtained last night as to the assets and liabilities of the concern. Herman Walker, the manager, could not be found. His brother, Frederick Walker, who was associated with him in the management. said:

"We were running behind right along, and

"We were running behind right along, and kept boosting up the concern with our own money until we got tired of it. Then we made a demand for $31,000. The stockholders re-fused to come up, and we had to go under. I think, bowover, that everything will come out all right."
Mr. Walker declined to make any further explanation.

COMING TO KILL QUAINIO.

But Qualnio Had Been Warned and Mal. tiassae Will Not be Allowed to Land. Dominico Qualnio, a cheese manufacturer of Sullivan county, with a city residence at 448 Fast Thirty-eighth street, went to the Barge Office yesterday and asked Col. Weber to prevent the landing of Sebastiano Mattiassae. a native of Ranjarno, in the province of Naples, Italy, who is coming to America on the steamship iniaziatina of the Florio Line. Quainio said that Mattinasae was coming to kill him.
The two men, it appears, are brothers-inlaw. Mattinasae, it is alleged, has spent twenty of his thirty-eight years in prison in Italy for assaults with knives, clubs, and pistols. His last term in prison, from which he has but recently been released, was two years.
At his trial quainio testified against him, and he swore to kill quainio as soon as he was released. When he obtained his liberty he set about making arrangements to come here and told some friends that he was going to keep his oath and kill Quainio. Friends of Quainio motified him to be on the lookout.
One of the lookout. Italy, who is coming to America on the steam-

Mr. Zeroga's Estate Taxable in This City. The estate of Augustus Zerega has been in litigation for the past three years on the question of his domicile. He lived in East Thirty-fifth street from November until June, and the rest of the year on his country place in West-chester county. He died in the city residence in 1888, leaving a widow, six sons, several daughters, and a grandson, and a fortune of daughters, and a grandson, and a fortune of half a million dollars. After his will had been admitted to probate his six sons and one grandson asked the Court to revoke the probate on the ground that the widow did not know of the petition for the probate, and that her husband was not a resident of this city, but of Westchester county. Surrogate kansom denied the petition, but the General Term reversed the decision on appeal. Then the Surrogate sent the facts to a referee, and in a decision just rendered still declares that the probate must be allowed to stand, remarking that the widow and daughters do not join in the petition, which is significant in itself.

Smoked a Pipe Near a Tunk of Alcohol DANBURY, Oct. 15.-A tank of alcohol in the stiffening room of Baird & Levis's hat factory in Bethel caught fire from a careless workman's pipe this afternoon, and the fire workman's pipe this afternoon, and the fire spread so quickly that many of the men and women on the upper floors had their elothing and hair burned in getting out. The flames spread to litchmond Brothers's large three-story factory, and in less than an hour the fire was beyond the control of the village firemen and threatened half the place. The handsome block owned by George Durant, on Main street, was burned, and George A. Shepard's warehouse was consumed. Help was sent for from Danbury. The entire loss will reach $150,000.

The Horse Backag Preacher Goes Back to the Polpit,

DETEOIT, Oct. 15 .- The Rev. W. J. Arney, who has won $5,000 in racing premiums this season, has sold the last horses in his string of trotters except a 2:20 roadster, and has gone back to preaching. A church in one of Minneback to preaching. A church in one of Minne-apolis's suburbs has given him a call, and he is now there looking over the ground. The salary is $1,000. Ther acing parson says he believes he likes the pulpt better than the sulky. The Michigan Methodist Conference did not assign him work, not being able to reconcile his horse troclivities with the ritual. It is said he will grive in no more meets.

Two Jersey Girls who Came to See the Parade and Have Not Gone Home. Clara Ritter, 15 years old, of 419 Morgan street, Union Hill, and Bertie Blim, 16 years old, of 306 Fulton street. Union Hill, have been missing from home since Wednesday. They went to New York Wednesday to see the parade, and have not returned. The two girls are quite pretty, and look older than they are. Their parents are very anxious about them and tear that they have met with some accident or have been enticed away. The New York police have been asked to hunt them up.
